ABOUT THE COLLOQUIUM

ICPC is organizing its 10th Bi-annual Colloquium on the theme of “Filling the gaps: integrated approaches to crime prevention and safety”, in association with the South African government and South African Police Service (SAPS).

The proposed theme for the 2012 Colloquium provides a valuable opportunity to focus on traditional and new sectors working on crime prevention, with debate and dialogue informed by international experts. This event aims to promote innovative partnerships to respond to community safety challenges.

The Colloquium will be held on February 20-22, 2012 at Upper Eastside Hotel, in Cape Town, South Africa.

The Colloquium will explore the following themes:

- National Crime Prevention Policies
- Criminal justice and crime prevention
- The role of policing in crime prevention
- Local Governance and Safety
- Evidence and policy making
- Public-private partnerships and crime prevention
- Cities, development and armed violence

09:00	Opening Plenary - National Crime Prevention Strategies There continues to be a clear evolution in knowledge and practice about crime prevention. Increasing numbers of countries and cities around the world see safety and security for their citizens as essential for development, and for the achievement of the Millennium Development Goals. They are embedding prevention strategies into their legislation and administrative structures. This persistent rise in the number of national crime prevention strategies gives a clear signal of its centrality in public policy within the country, and its growing presence as a global guideline. The opening plenary "National crime prevention strategies" will present a series of national strategies and its developments, challenges and methods of implementation. It will also offer the space for debate on the importance of prevention strategies from various perspectives. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Moderator: Lieutenant General S G Lebeza, Deputy National Commissioner: Crime Detection, South African Police Service ■ Presenters: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Bilkis Omar, Chief Director: Policy & Research Unit, Civilian Secretariat for Police, South Africa – Dianne McIntosh, Permanent Secretary, Ministry of National Security, Jamaica – Ingvild Hoel, Senior Adviser, Prevention and Crime Fighting Section, National Police Directorate, Norway ■ Commentators: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Dr. Elizabeth Ward, Chairman, Violence Prevention Alliance, Jamaica – Dr. Kalpana Viswanath, Project Director, Gender Inclusive Cities Project, Women in Cities International, India – Eduardo Pazinato, Secretary of Public Safety of Canoas, Brazil – Julie Alivaktuk, Peer Helper Coordinator, Making Connections for Youth, Hamlet of Pangnirtung, Canada 	Piazza

14:00	Concurrent Workshop Sessions (I)
WORKSHOP 1	CRIMINAL JUSTICE AND CRIME PREVENTION In recent years, international organizations have become increasingly concerned about the effectiveness of criminal justice responses to high rates of crime, which can dramatically influence society's perceptions of security and trust in the system. This link has drawn attention to the importance of legitimate and effective criminal justice institutions, the integrity and accountability of authorities, and the treatment of victims and offenders. Such conditions can directly affect the outcomes and success of crime prevention initiatives, whereby justice and prevention are inter-linked and mutually dependant. Many state and non-state actors (i.e. NGOs, etc.) have developed multi-sectoral approaches that integrate crime prevention and the criminal justice system in innovative ways. The workshop on "Criminal justice and crime prevention" will explore alternative practices aimed at strengthening the effectiveness of preventive capacities within the justice system. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Moderator : Dr Gilbert Lawrence, Head of Department, Department of Community Safety, Western Cape, South Africa ■ Presenters: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Lesley Ann Van Selm, Director, Khulisa Social Solutions, South Africa – Julius Lang, Director of Technical Assistance, Center for Court Innovation, USA – Chris Heide, Coordinator of Making Connections for Youth and Julie Alivaktuk, Peer Helper Coordinator, Making Connections for Youth, Hamlet of Pangnirtung, Canada – Cristina Goñi, Secretary General, International Juvenile Justice Observatory (IJJO), Belgium ■ Commentator: Natalie Jaynes, Programme Director, Criminal Justice Initiative, Open Society Foundation for South Africa ■ Rapporteur: Jaki Mbogo, Crime and Criminal Justice Program Officer, Open Society Initiative for Eastern Africa (OSIEA) 	Central 1
WORKSHOP 2	PUBLIC-PRIVATE PARTNERSHIPS AND CRIME PREVENTION [Spanish translation available] In recent years, more and more companies have sought new ways to contribute to citizens' wellbeing and quality of life. We are witnessing a growth in the engagement of the private sector in actions addressing social problems and ways of contributing to the development of communities, cities and countries. Safety has been a central focus of many public-private partnerships, suggesting a formal collaboration between public sector agencies (i.e. government), the civil society and the private sector, aimed at dealing with rising crime and violence in expanding urban areas worldwide. The private sector is in a unique position to contribute to crime prevention, and therefore the workshop "Public-private partnerships and crime prevention" will provide the opportunity to highlight innovative partnerships from around the world, and to debate the value and limitations of such participation. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Moderator : Fabrice Fussy, Head of Observatoire national de la délinquance dans les transports (ONDT), France ■ Presenters : <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Dr. Paula Poncioni, Member of the Brazilian Forum on Public Safety, Professor of Social Policy and Social Work, Federal University of Rio de Janeiro, Brazil – Flavia Carbonari, Sustainable Development Specialist, Latin America and the Caribbean Region, The World Bank, Washington, USA – Kalyani Pillay, Chief Executive Officer, SABRIC, South Africa ■ Commentator: Dr. Graham Wright, Chief Executive Officer, Business Against Crime South Africa ■ Rapporteur : Elizabeth Johnston, Executive Director, European Forum for Urban Security, France 	Central 2

WORKSHOP 3	EVIDENCE AND POLICY MAKING Evidence is crucial in assessing the progress of initiatives, monitoring budgets, evaluating effectiveness, and determining future activities. Research plays a significant role in the production of evidence through evaluation, and evidence-based research is an important part of building bridges with policy making. While the production of evidence is a growing part of project management, translating evidence into knowledge for the purposes of influencing policy and making it more accessible are ongoing challenges. Considering the importance of evidence for prevention, the workshop "Evidence and policy making" will review several innovative ways of measuring crime and crime prevention, and will outline the challenges involved from different contexts in terms of how to transform evidence into policy. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Moderator: Dr. Christopher Mikton, Technical Officer, Violence and Injury Prevention and Disability, World Health Organization ■ Presenters: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Dr. Adam Tomison, Director, Australian Institute of Criminology, Australia – Innocent Chukwuma, Executive Director, CLEEN Foundation, Nigeria – Dr. Anna Alvazzi del Frate, Research Director, Small Arms Survey (SAS), Switzerland ■ Commentator: Dr. Richard A Griggs, Independent Evaluator of Crime Prevention Projects and Programmes, South Africa ■ Rapporteur : Patrick Burton, Executive Director, Center for Justice and Crime Prevention, South Africa 	Central 3

Time	Conference Session	Room
09:00	Concurrent Workshop Sessions (II)
WORKSHOP 4	LOCAL GOVERNANCE AND SAFETY One of the big gaps in crime prevention work historically is to properly interrogate the dependencies between local governance issues and the provision of local safety to communities, villages, towns and cities. This session will offer an opportunity to explore the way in which the design and management of human settlements is essential to the provision of safety. Discussion will explore the extent to which crime prevention should be seen as an objective when addressing basic services such as sanitation, water and electricity, access to education, health, livelihoods, reliable transport and to other opportunities such as for play and family leisure, for spaces in which women, the elderly and other disadvantaged groups such as the disabled, are safe and experience freedom of movement. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Moderator: Dr. Tina Silbernagl, German Development Corporation, Germany ■ Presenters: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Dr. Kalpana Viswanath, Project Director, Gender Inclusive Cities Project, Women in Cities International, India – Delme Cupido, Indigenous Peoples Rights programme Manager, Open Society Initiative for Southern Africa – Dr. Gilbert Lawrence, Head of Department, Department of Community Safety, Western Cape, South Africa ■ Commentator: Michael Krause, Team leader, Violence Prevention through Urban Upgrading (VPUU) programme, South Africa ■ Rapporteur: Nazira Cachalia, Programme Manager, Johannesburg City Safety Programme, Office of the CoP, JMPD 	Central 1

WORKSHOP 5	THE ROLE OF POLICING IN CRIME PREVENTION Police services worldwide continue to be key actors in crime prevention. Since 1996, the role of the police in crime prevention has been a core area of work for ICPC, which has included its 7th Colloquium, various seminars, comparative research and international compendia. Prevention increasingly plays a role in policing practices as a means of implementing alternative strategies in dealing with changing crime rates. Some examples include providing a visible presence through community policing practices, building effective cross-sector partnerships, as well as shifting traditional policing structures by providing courses to officers. The workshop on “the role of policing in crime prevention” will explore how different police services have better responded to crime in terms of promoting safety as a means of strengthening their prevention capacity. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Moderator: Johan Kruger, National Project Coordinator, Trafficking in Persons & Violence against Women, Southern Africa, United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) ■ Presenters: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Camilla Grimsæth, Superintendent at Vestfold Police District, Norway and Geir Tveit, Police Superintendent at Oslo Police District, Gronland Police Station, Norway – Susan Pienaar, Major General, Division Visible Policing, South African Police Service – Dormah Harrison, Assistant Commissioner of Police, Jamaica Constabulary Force, Jamaica – Léandre Sorgo, Head of the Communications and Public Relations Division General Directorate National Police of Burkina Faso ■ Commentator: Dr. Erena van der Spuy, Associate Professor, Centre of Criminology and Department of Public Law, University of Cape Town, South Africa ■ Rapporteur : Sean Tait, Coordinator, African Policing Civilian Oversight Forum, South Africa 	Central 3
WORKSHOP 6	CITIES, DEVELOPMENT AND ARMED VIOLENCE [Spanish translation available] The 21st Century is the ‘century of the city’ and half of the world’s population resides in urban areas. While urbanization has brought opportunities to dwellers, cities are feeling the weight to accommodate residents. The result in many cases has been weak provision of security, sprawling informal settlements, and heightened exposure and risk of armed violence. Attention towards urban armed violence is gaining momentum and initiatives are providing opportunities to advance dialogue and policy. Prevention as an approach is securing a place within national and international discussion and course of action. The Colloquium provides a space to continue the work from the 2nd Ministerial Review Conference on the Geneva Declaration on Armed Violence and Development. This workshop will outline some prevention efforts at the city level which address urban armed violence, the impact on development, and the degree to which they integrate different sectors to reshape crime prevention. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ■ Moderator : Juma Assiago, Human Urban Safety Expert/Lead - Global Network on Safer Cities (GNSC), Safer Cities Programme, Urban Development Branch ■ Presenters: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> – Eduardo Pazinato, Secretary of Public Safety of Canoas, Brazil – Joseph Dube, Africa Coordinator, International Action Network on Small Arms , South Africa – Elred De Klerk, Consultant, South Africa ■ Commentator : Brigadier Mathapelo Mirriam Mangwani, Division Visible Policing, South African Police Service ■ Rapporteur : Luigi De Martino, Geneva Declaration, Switzerland 	Central2

Pregaluxmi Govender

Deputy Chairperson, South African Human Rights Commission

Pregs Govender's activism began in 1974 in Durban, through student, women, community and political organisations that were fighting against Apartheid. After graduating from University, she worked as a teacher at schools and at university in Durban. In the 1980's she joined the trade union movement, serving as National Educator before heading the Workers College at UWC. During South Africa's transition, she managed the Women's National Coalition, which drew up SA's Women's Charter and mobilized rural and urban women to impact on SA's Constitution.

After the first democratic elections in 1994, Pregs served as an ANC MP under President Mandela. She initiated SA's gender budgeting, steered its impact on the National Budget and inspired similar initiatives globally. She was appointed editor of SA's Country Report on Women to the UN Conference in Beijing. In 1996, after being elected Chair of Parliament's Committee on Women, she ensured that 80% of its legislative priorities were enacted by 1999. In 2001, she was the only MP to register opposition to the arms deal in the Defence Budget Vote itself. She also chaired public hearings on HIV/Aids. Her Committee's report broke the silence on HIV/Aids that prevailed in the ANC Caucus, during President Mbeki's era. She resigned from Parliament in 2002. In 2007 the Independent Panel Assessment of Parliament elected Pregs as its Chair.

She currently serves as Deputy Chair of the SAHRC, after Parliament voted unanimously for her appointment as a Commissioner to the SAHRC. Pregs currently serves on the international Panel on Human Dignity. Her awards include honorary doctorates in Law and Philosophy, the Ruth First Fellowship and the Fulbright New Century Scholarship on the global empowerment of women. In 2007, Jacana published her book Love and Courage, a story of Insubordination, which has been used in the curricula of several universities across the globe.
