MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR GENERAL

The year 2023 was marked by significant developments due to the increase in insecurity, cyber-violence and gun-related crime in several major cities around the world and in Canada. This annual report looks back at the actions we have taken internationally, in Quebec and in Montréal.

We continued to be guided by our multi-sectoral approach, which promotes concerted action and cooperation among our various partners in the institutional, community and association sectors. Once again this year, we saw the positive impact of this approach through the development and implementation of more innovative and integrated crime prevention strategies that respond to the specific needs of our communities.

In Montréal, we are in the fourth year of our Urban Safety Laboratory (LabSU) initiative. Crime remains a major concern, especially for the most vulnerable populations. Our team has actively resumed its activities in the field, allowing us to publish numerous thematic analysis reports and conduct several local safety audits this year. In addition, the completion of our exploratory walks also enabled us to understand users' feelings of insecurity in the Montréal subway network, with the aim of informing and influencing public policy, guiding the decisions of local actors, and initiating concrete actions to improve citizens' safety and well-being.

We have also strengthened our relationships with government agencies in Canada and abroad to multiply our initiatives and international presence in proposing and supporting the implementation of policies and initiatives to combat crime in cities and communities.

In Quebec, we broke new ground in the field of urban safety by organizing the first edition of our Summer School in Montréal focusing on urban safety in action: building tomorrow's safe cities. Our engagement on the international front was equally significant. We participated in the Dubai World Police Summit, organized by the Dubai Police, where we highlighted the successful implementation of our Urban Safety Lab in Montréal and shared our expertise in safety in mobility. Our participation in the spring and fall coordination meetings of the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (UNCPJ) network also enabled us to consolidate our partnerships with several key international players in the field of violence prevention.

In addition, our participation in the 28th German Prevention Congress in Mannheim, which focused on crisis management and prevention, and our intervention in the "Challenges of Crime Ecuador 2023" seminar at the Central University of Ecuador, in Quito, allowed us to strengthen our international network, exchange best practices, promote our expertise and position the ICPC as a key player in crime prevention at the global level.

I would like to thank all of our members, current and new partners for your invaluable cooperation and trust. Together, thanks to your unwavering support and commitment, we have made remarkable progress in the fight to prevent crime and make our communities safer.

Let's continue to work together for a safer, more just future in 2024!

Ann Champoux

Director General

ABOUT US

The International Centre for the Prevention of Crime (ICPC) is an international non-governmental organization based in Montréal, created in 1994 by the governments of France, Canada and Quebec. Its mission is to promote the adoption of international standards of crime prevention and criminal justice in order to enhance the daily safety and quality of life in communities, cities and other local authorities.

The ICPC supports the development and implementation of practical and effective policies, programs and projects to reduce crime and delinquency. It is also committed to developing innovative solutions to the complex challenges posed by crime and violence, with an emphasis on research, capacity building and knowledge transfer.

Working with Member States, international and regional organizations and authorities at all levels of government, ICPC works closely with the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) and the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat). It has an active presence in the Americas, Europe, Africa and Oceania. The ICPC offers a wide range of technical and conceptual knowledge on crime prevention and related policies, practices and tools aimed at reducing the risk factors associated with crime, violence and insecurity.

OUR IMPACT IN NUMBERS

KNOWLEDGE CENTRE

In 2023, we published four thematic reports.

ICPC PUBLICATIONS

April 2023: Local safety audit on girls, women and elderly people for the Villeray—Saint-Michel—Parc-Extension borough (available in French only)

In response to the increase in various forms of violence against girls, women and the elderly, the Montréal borough of Villeray-Saint-Michel-Parc-Extension (VSP) asked ICPC to help visualize the safety situation on its territory, focusing on incidents involving girls and women of all ages.

The report also makes recommendations on how to intervene and prevent insecurity problems. The report covers the following topics:

- Initial analysis of the Villeray-Saint-Michel-Parc-Extension borough and structure of the local safety audit;
- Statistical evaluation of crime, identification of hot spots and mobility safety in the borough;

- Study of sexual, psychological, cyber and interpersonal violence among adolescents, young women and adult women;
- Analysis of the various forms of abuse experienced by older women, and final recommendations based on the research findings.

This report is among the steps announced by VSP in 2022, which made strengthening women's safety a priority for the borough.

May 2023: Conference proceedings - 7th International Conference on Observation, Analysis and Prevention of Insecurity: security in mobility

From October 4 to 6, ICPC organized, in partnership with various French, Belgian and Canadian organizations, the 7th International Conference on the Observation, Analysis and Prevention of Insecurity. The event, which focused on mobility safety, was held at the headquarters of the International Union of Railways in Paris.

Experts from 19 cities presented different approaches and raised participant's awareness of the many issues related to insecurity in public transport, highlighting the major risks and challenges in this essential sector of daily life.

The main points were as follows:

- The issue of harassment on public transportation is a major problem that particularly affects women;
- Crime is not random; it is influenced by circumstances and factors that encourage criminal opportunism and delinquency;
- There is a paradoxical coexistence between highly vulnerable individuals and users who pay for a service and naturally expect a certain level of quality.

Analyse des affaires criminelles impliquant l'usage d'une arme à feu dans l'agglomération de Montréal

To address the alarming increase in violence in the Greater Montréal area, this report provides an in-depth analysis of the various acts of violence involving Montréal youth in recent years and highlights the key factors that have influenced these situations, including the COVID-19 pandemic, cyber-violence and gun violence.

This report focuses on four main themes:

- A descriptive analysis of the crimes against the person between 2015 and 2019;
- Analysis of the living spaces frequented by youth;
- Cybercrime;
- Issues related to criminal acts involving firearms, edged weapons, and improvised weapons as well as young people.

July 2023: Analysis of criminal incidents involving the use of a firearm in the Greater Montreal area

In light of the increasing number of incidents involving firearms in Montréal, this report, funded by the Quebec Ministry of Public Safety, aims to shed light on the context in which firearms are used in the Greater Montreal area and to identify solutions and recommendations to address this complex scourge.

Summarizing incidents involving a firearm from 2015 to 2020, representing more than 924 criminal cases recorded by the Service de police de la ville de Montréal (SPVM), the report provides:

- An in-depth analysis of general trends in the form of numerical data;
- A profile of the alleged perpetrators and victims, as well as the links between them and the locations and times of the incidents;
- A discussion and recommendations.

October 2023: Quantified portrait of the Montréal borough of Verdun in Quebec, Canada

Between 2015 and 2021, the Verdun borough saw a significant increase of 32.6% in crimes against people, the most common of which were assaults, threats and violence, as well as sexual assault.

In this context, the Verdun borough asked the ICPC to draw up a quantitative portrait of crime in the district. This is the first exercise of its kind for the area.

The decision to focus specifically on crimes against persons was taken following a contextual study of the borough and several meetings with the steering committee to coordinate ongoing projects in the region.

The report is divided into four sections:

- Portrait of crime in the Verdun borough;
- Profile of alleged perpetrators and victims;
- Analysis of the chronology of crimes against persons;
- Focus on three specific areas of study.

CENTRE FOR EXCHANGE AND EXPERTISE

EVENTS ORGANIZED BY THE ICPC AND ITS PARTNERS

February 15, 2023: 3rd Colloquium of the Réseau d'échange et de soutien aux actions locales (RÉSAL)

About a hundred people gathered at the Centre St-Pierre in Montréal to take part in the 3rd Colloquium of the Réseau d'échange et de soutien aux actions locales (RÉSAL), of which the ICPC is a coordinating member. The theme of the colloquium was the prevention of cyber violence among young people. The day was full of activities for participants and panellists, with a series of meetings, discussions, workshops and "braindates."

The proceedings are available here.

August 24 and 25, 2023: First Edition of the ICPC Summer School

The ICPC had the pleasure of hosting the first edition of its Summer School at the Centre St-Pierre in Montréal, which focused on the theme of "Urban safety in action: building tomorrow's safe cities."

The aim of this event was to promote prevention in urban mobility and to support the competent management of security in urban areas. More than twenty people attended presentations on the following main topics: urban security as a living space approach, crime prevention strategies related to urban mobility, and recommendations from the ICPC and its collaborators. Participants also helped formulate solutions to the challenges they regularly face in their daily work in and around Montréal.

VISITS FROM DELEGATIONS AND INTERNATIONAL MISSIONS

June 14, 2023: Visit of a delegation from the Réseau pour la Coopération Décentralisée et le Développement Durable (RC3D) and mayors of Cameroon to Montréal, Quebec, Canada

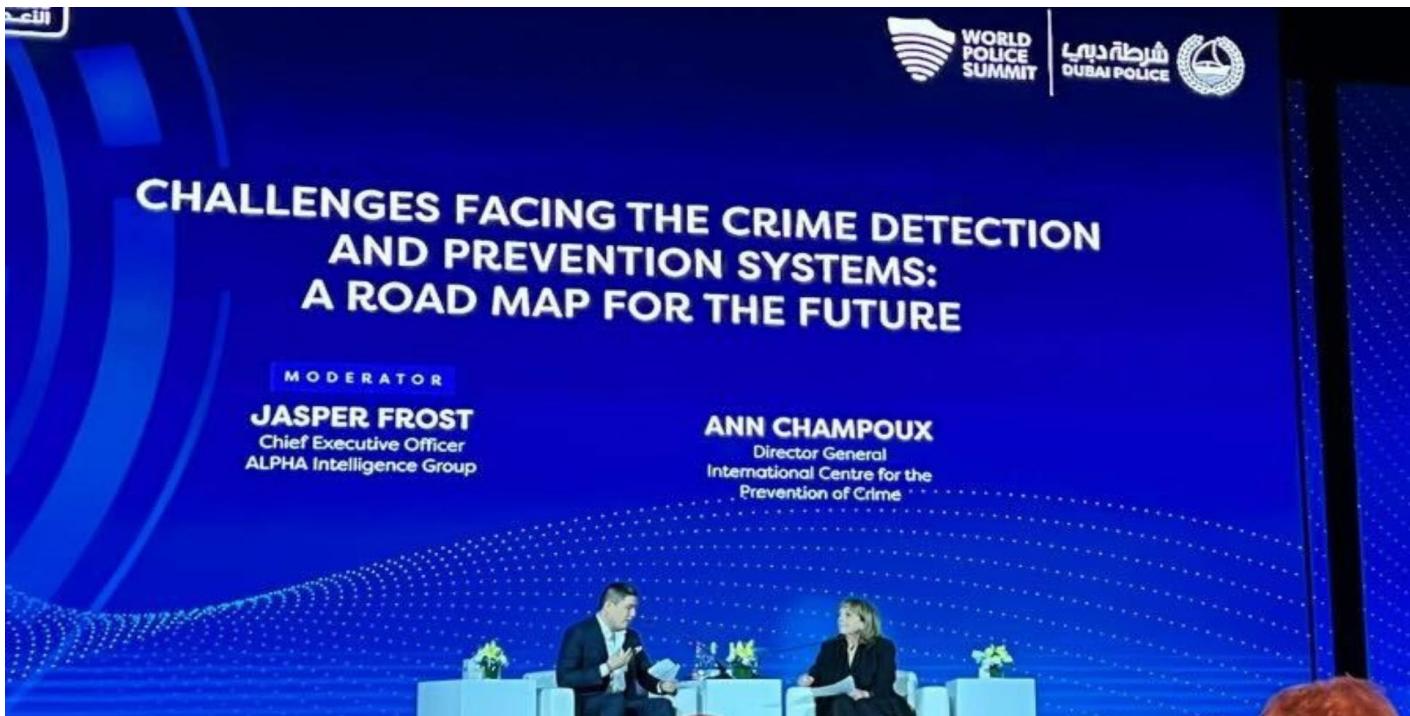

The ICPC was honored to welcome to its Montréal offices the President of the RC3D (Réseau pour la Coopération Décentralisée et le Développement Durable), Ms Angèle Bagnia, the President of the Association des communes et villes unies du Cameroun pour le littoral (CUVC), Mr Valentin Epoupa Bossambo, and the Managing Director of the Société d'Assainissement du Cameroun (SECA), Ms Arlette Tchapoya, also a member of the Douala City Council in Cameroon.

An ICPC ally for many years, the RC3D promotes international and interprofessional exchange of experience and knowledge sharing to create a unique framework for sharing and exchanging experience and expertise in Africa and Canada.

The purpose of this meeting was to renew the exchange between our two entities in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, to evaluate the actions taken by each of them, and to outline the possibilities for collaboration in crime prevention.

INTERNATIONAL MISSIONS

March 7-9 mars, 2023: Participation in the World Police Summit in Dubai, United Arab Emirates

To reaffirm its international character, the ICPC participated in the World Police Summit 2023 in Dubai, organized by the Dubai Police. The event was marked by a rich exchange of knowledge between different global crime networks. On March 7, Ann Champoux presented the organization's 30 years of work to nearly 200 participants, highlighting the success of the Urban Security Laboratory in Montréal and emphasizing the importance of working with the police to prevent crime.

On the second day of the Summit, March 8, Ms. Champoux met with the Consul General of Canada in Dubai, Jean-Philippe Linteau, to discuss opportunities for collaboration in crime prevention, before meeting with Dubai Police officials on March 9 to discuss cyber violence and ICPC's expertise in transportation security.

Participation at the 32nd session of the UNODC Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, Vienna, Austria.

Ann Champoux represented the organization at the 32nd session of the UNODC Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, held in Vienna, Austria, from 22 to 25 May.

During this event, ICPC participated in the Spring Coordination Meeting of the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice Programme (UNCPJ) Network, of which it is a member.

June 12-13, 2023: Participation in the 28th German Prevention Congress in Mannheim, Germany

From June 12-13, Ann Champoux attended the 28th German Prevention Congress in Mannheim, Germany, which focused on crisis management and prevention. The event brought together nearly 2,000 participants, including community organizations, international organizations and government representatives.

October 23 to 25, 2023: Participation in the annual conference of the Canadian Municipal Network on Crime Prevention, Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada

From October 23-25, ICPC participated in the Canadian Municipal Crime Prevention Network's (CMPCN) annual conference in Regina, Saskatchewan, with the theme "Community Safety. Together. Igniting Change." CMPCN is a partner of ICPC.

This event, attended by nearly 150 people, provided an opportunity for a number of urban security actors, university officials, and representatives of Canada's First Nations and urban and rural communities to exchange ideas on new security practices in terms of local and international governance and prevention.

November 1-2, 2023: Participation in the Fall Meeting of the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (UNCPJ) Network, Vancouver, Canada

On November 1st, ICPC Director General Ann Champoux participated in the Fall 2023 Coordination Meeting of the United Nations Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (UNCPJ) Network in Vancouver. This participation is part of ICPC's mandate within the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice (CCPCJ) of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC).

This mission to Vancouver was also an opportunity to participate in the Colloquium on Combating Cryptocurrency Crime organized by the Vancouver Anti-Corruption Institute (within the International Centre for Criminal Law Reform and Criminal Justice Policy) on November 2. Solutions such as better governance to combat fraud and money laundering, as well as strengthening the legal framework to regulate the use of cryptocurrencies in the coming years were shared.

ICPC INTERVENTIONS AT EVENTS

March 14, 2023: Participation in a workshop day organized by the Ministère de la Sécurité publique du Québec, in Québec City, Canada

The ICPC had the opportunity to participate in a day of workshops on the prevention of gun violence organized by the Quebec Ministry of Public Safety on March 14, 2023. The purpose of this day was to take stock of the main initiatives carried out as part of the 2019-2023 action plan, which is integrated into the contribution agreement of the Firearms and Gang Violence Action Fund (FACVAFG). We are grateful to the Ministry for giving us this opportunity to present our activities and the benefits of the Montréal Urban Safety Laboratory.

April 26, 2023: Online participation in a session of the Inter-American Community of Crime Observatories' cycle of exchange of experience and innovation

The first session of the 2023 Inter-American Community of Crime Observatories, Department of Public Security of the Organization of American States, was held on April 26. The ICPC was represented at the event by Oscar Figueroa, the organization's Latin American consultant.

The session focused on the transfer of prevention and security models between two municipalities in the region, and the important role played by observatories in the design, implementation, and monitoring of projects. Representatives from the municipality of Peñalolén (Chile) and the municipality of Nezahualcóyotl (Mexico) shared their respective models of rights promotion and social prevention, as well as their model of social proximity, and also shared the lessons learned from the exchange and transfers carried out. Security experts emphasized the importance of collaboration and communication between crime observatories to achieve effective security solutions.

June 12,2023: Participation in the Crime Challenges in Ecuador 2023 seminar at the Central University of Ecuador.

Organized by the Faculty of Jurisprudence, the Julio Endara Institute of Criminology at the Central University of Ecuador, and the Centro Panamericano de Estudios e Investigaciones Geográficas (CEPEIGE - Pan-American Studies Centre), the seminar brought together various academic and institutional players from Ecuador and other Latin American countries to discuss different approaches, methods, and tools for preventing crime-related challenges. It was in this context that Oscar Figueroa, ICPC strategic consultant for Latin America, presented the mission, the network of members around the world, and the organization's main current projects.

June 22, 2023: Participation in the official launch of the Table d'action et de concertation montréalaise en exploitation sexuelle (TACMES), in Montréal, Quebec, Canada

The International Centre for the Prevention of Crime (ICPC) took part in the official launch of the Table d'action et de concertation montréalaise en exploitation sexuelle (TACMES), which took place on June 22, 2023. Between 40 and 60 participants attended this key meeting for the prevention of sexual exploitation.

The ICPC presented the project to develop a second line of sexual exploitation prevention services for youth aged 12 to 25 as well as an interactive map that lists the contacts of all TACMES members, as well as other stakeholders in Montréal and the rest of Quebec. This map is available to all TACMES members to check and use as a directory.

September 27 and 28, 2023: Participation in the Synergie Laval initiative, in Laval, Quebec, Canada

Organized by the Pôle lavallois d'enseignement supérieur en arts numériques et économie créative, the purpose of the Synergie Forum was to bring together members of the Laval community to examine the problems, challenges and best practices for reducing gun violence and juvenile delinquency in the city.

During the two days, the ICPC participated in two innovative presentations. On the first day, which focused more specifically on the theme of urban violence, Michelle Côté, scientific advisor, took part in a panel to present the organization, its Urban Safety Lab, and examples of inspiring practices aimed at developing a shared vision in the combat against crime. Then, on the second day, with discussions focusing on prevention and intervention, Janny Montinat, analyst, discussed various possible issues linked to the glorification of firearms among young people on social networks and presented local and international approaches on how to prevent this phenomenon.

September 29, 2023: Participation in a work session with the Communauté de pratique en sécurité urbaine (CPSU), in Montréal, Quebec, Canada

The ICPC took part in a work session with the City of Montréal's Communauté de pratique en sécurité urbaine (CPSU) on the issue of women and urban safety. The event was aimed at various players from the city's 19 boroughs.

Through the participation of various stakeholders from these boroughs, this meeting was an opportunity to explore and collectively understand the essential challenges, fundamental values, and good practices relating to the safety of women in the urban environment.

The first activity consisted of an interactive group exercise session, during which participants were encouraged to explore different approaches and ideas for enhancing safety in public, private, and digital environments. Maxime Raulet, analyst and project officer at the ICPC, moderated this activity. He then presented the results of a quantitative analysis of the ten most common offences in their respective boroughs, according to the age and gender of the victims.

November 21 to 22, 2023: Sharing of expertise at the First Inter-American Conference of Crime Observatories and Analysis Centres, online

It was at this First Inter-American Conference of Crime Observatories and Analysis Centres that Oscar Figueroa, Strategic Consultant for Latin America at ICPC, moderated a panel on the impact of different tools used and their application on geospatial crime analysis. The conference was held online.

The panel featured presentations from CentroGeo, with the participation of Pablo López Ramírez, General Director, Oscar Gerardo Sánchez Siordia, Coordinator (Yucatán headquarters) and Carlos Vilalta, Research Professor, as well as Arturo Arango, Director of CrimiPol, who presented tools and products developed from geospatial crime analysis.

Organized by the Department of Public Security of the Organization of American States (DSP/OAS) and the Latin American Institute for Security and Democracy, and attended by some 150 participants, this was an opportunity for many representatives of research organizations, political and legal institutions, to exchange views on new methodologies, tools and public policies to combat the rise in insecurity and all forms of crime in the Americas.

ICPC NETWORK AND PARTNER ACTIVITIES

ICPC PARTICIPATION IN PARTNER ACTIVITIES

March 14, 2023: ICPC participates in a day of workshops organized by the Quebec Ministry of Public Safety

On March 14, the ICPC had the opportunity to participate in a day of workshops on gun violence prevention, organized by the Quebec Ministry of Public Safety. The goal of the workshops was to discuss the main initiatives carried out under the 2019-2023 Action Plan, that is part of the Contribution Agreement of the Gun and Gang Violence Action Fund. We are grateful to the Ministry for providing us with this opportunity to present our activities and results in relation to our Montréal Urban Safety Laboratory.

This event allowed the ICPC to share its knowledge and expertise in urban safety, and to discuss with other stakeholders involved in the fight against gun violence.

April 27, 2023: Participation of the ICPC at the Annual General Meeting of Montréal International

On April 27th, the Annual General Meeting of Montréal International was held at Cirque Éloize. The ICPC attended, along with nearly 300 members of the Montréal International community, followed by an evening of networking.

May 11, 2023: Participation in an IBCR youth evening

On May 11, 2023, the ICPC participated in the event "Mieux prévenir l'exploitation sexuelle: Parole aux Jeunes!", organized by the International Bureau for Children's Rights (IBCR) at the Centre PHI in Montréal.

The event gave a voice to young people and discussed the important issue of sexual exploitation of young people, particularly in the context of the current pandemic. It represented the culmination of two years of hard work by five groups of young teens from the Greater Montréal area and involved 70 teenagers aged 14 to 17.

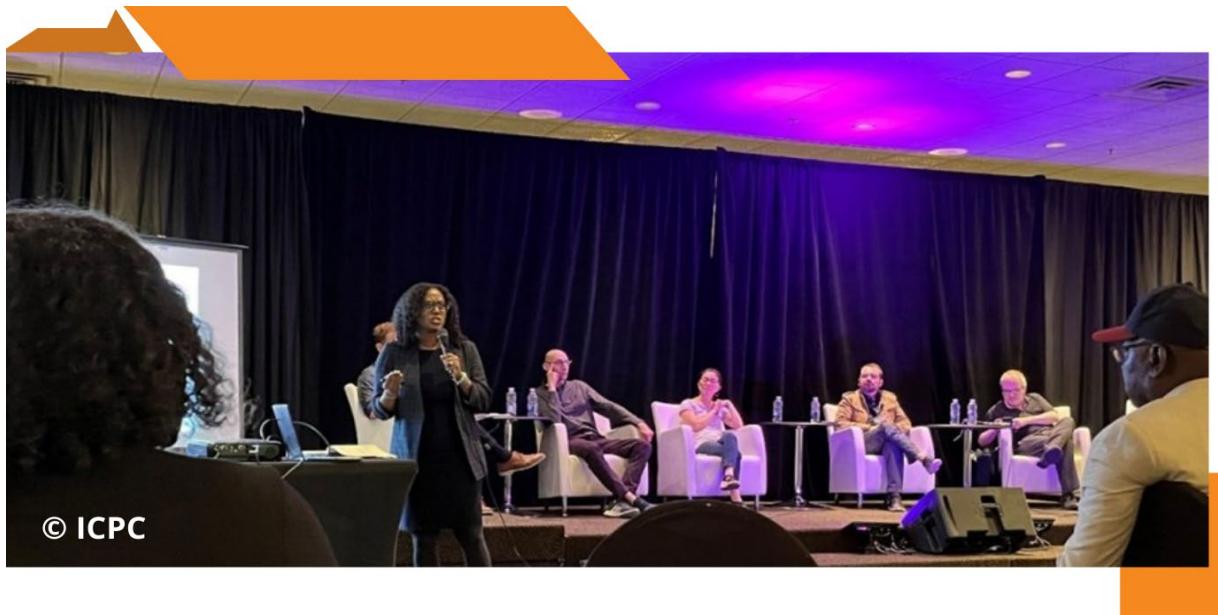

The teens shared their perspectives and made recommendations such as partnering with social media influencers to raise awareness, training for parents and providing tools to help young people how to recognize signs of toxicity.

In this regard, the ICPC remains committed to exploring further collaborations on similar prevention issues.

May 24, 2023: Participation in the second edition of the Colloque Urbanité et jeunes marginalisés : de la confrontation à la bienveillance, in Montréal, Quebec, Canada

On May 24, 2023, the ICPC participated in the second edition of the Colloque Urbanité et jeunes marginalisés : de la confrontation à la bienveillance, held in Montréal-Nord and attended by nearly 200 people. The event, jointly organized by Café-Jeunesse Multiculturel and the University of Ottawa's Centre for Research on Community and Educational Services, aimed to bring together social, institutional and academic players to debate and exchange views on the challenges and opportunities of caring for marginalized youth. Conferences addressed issues such as the "non-recourse" to rights and services, the representation of deviance and delinquency among girls, as well as armed violence. Initiatives such as including citizen initiative incubators and community mental health clinics were presented.

June 8, 2023: Participation in an online session on the impact of street gangs on girls

On June 8th, the ICPC took part in a lunchtime talk at which Anne-Marie Ducharme, a doctoral student in psychoeducation at the University of Sherbrooke, presented a report on the clinical consequences of trauma suffered by adolescent girls in contact with street gangs and their involvement with sexual exploitation and violence.

The meeting, which brought together various institutional, academic and community players, including members of RÉSAL, allowed the ICPC to benefit from the experience gained by stakeholders in the field, to learn about the concerns shared by the practice groups and to make conceptual progress on its projects funded by the Urban Safety Laboratory of the Quebec Ministry of Public Safety on recruitment by street gangs and the sexual exploitation of teenagers.

June 29, 2023: ICPC participation in a webinar on the prevention of violence and radicalization

On June 29, the ICPC was pleased to participate in the webinar "Preventing Social Polarization and Radicalization in Education and Beyond" organized by its partner the Canadian Municipal Network on Crime Prevention (CMNCP). Nearly sixty participants, such as practitioners, school professionals and members of the RMCPC community, held a discussion on "the role of education professionals in preventing social polarization and radicalization leading to violence." The hosts presented an overview of the study's main findings and the recommendations that arose from the two-year project funded by Public Safety Canada. The study addressed issues related to the prevention of radicalization, violence, social polarization and cyberspace in Canadian schools. This event was an opportunity for the ICPC to learn more about international practices regarding the prevention of radicalization leading to violence, as well as issues that people working in schools may encounter. These were presented by CPN-PREV, CIVIX, Strong Cities Network and Foundation for a path forward.

September 15, 2023: The ICPC participation in the Municipal summit on homelessness in Quebec City, Canada

On September 15, 2023, we were privileged to represent the ICPC in the Municipal Summit on Homelessness organized by ICPC member, the Union des municipalités du Québec (UMQ). The summit brought together close to 400 representatives of various local organizations, including several local mayors.

The Summit provided an opportunity to discuss innovative and effective solutions to the challenges of homelessness and to optimize the management of urban spaces by developing appropriate resources and support programs. Everyone's sense of security depends on close cooperation among the various players involved.

September 21, 2023: ICPC attends a virtual conference on violent radicalization in CEGEPs in Quebec, organized by IRIPII

The ICPC had the pleasure of attending a virtual conference organized on September 21, 2023, by the Institut de recherche sur l'immigration et sur les pratiques interculturelles et inclusives (IRIPII) on the current situation of violent radicalization in Quebec's CEGEPs (Canada).

In the current context of social destabilization caused by the rise of radicalization movements within societies, this conference was an opportunity to explore the tools and various means of raising awareness to combat this phenomenon of extremism in Montréal's CEGEPs.

Soutien à la radicalisation menant à la violence

Une définition de radicalisation violente (RV)

La radicalisation violente (RV) est un processus individuel ou collectif par lequel un ou plusieurs individus engagent dans des actions spécifiques violentes pour atteindre un objectif spécifique (politique, social, etc.).

Attitude ≠ Comportement

October 3, 2023: Participation of the ICPC in the City of Montréal's 2nd "Solidarity, Equity and Inclusion" event

The ICPC was pleased to take part in the Vers l'avant, Montréal's second major event on solidarity, equity and inclusion event organized by the City of Montréal as part of the deployment of its 2021-2025 Solidarity, Equity and Inclusion Action Plan.

Featuring several panels, the city presented the progress it has made, as well as the challenges, lessons learned, and success stories it has uncovered in promoting social inclusion in order to foster equal opportunities for marginalized and disadvantaged communities.

October 25 and 26, 2023: The ICPC attended the 2nd Montréal Forum on Combating Armed Violence, Montréal, Quebec, Canada

On October 25 and 26, we participated in the second edition of the Montréal Forum on Combating Armed Violence, organized by the City of Montréal and the Montréal Police Service (SPVM). This forum was an opportunity for nearly 150 participants, including many representatives from institutions and community organizations working in the field of health, safety and school sectors, to assess the state of armed violence in Montréal, with a focus on joint commitments and concrete prevention initiatives in the public environment, as well as in city neighbourhoods and schools.

The event addressed a range of issues, including the public health approach aimed at protecting the health of individuals who are victims of violence, the fight against all forms of online violence, the dangers of cyberspace and more.

Also, in order to promote the Montréal model for a safe city implemented in February 2022 by the city and the SPVM, which includes the active participation of youth, the forum provided a platform for the dissemination of projects "by and for young people" from a number of Montréal associations and organizations, which provided insights into solutions to combat armed violence.

Online participation of the ICPC in a series of webinars on safer cities organized by UN-Habitat

On October 30, 2023, ICPC participated in an introductory meeting on collaboration between cities, organizations and local governments to implement the UN Safer Cities Guidelines through peer review.

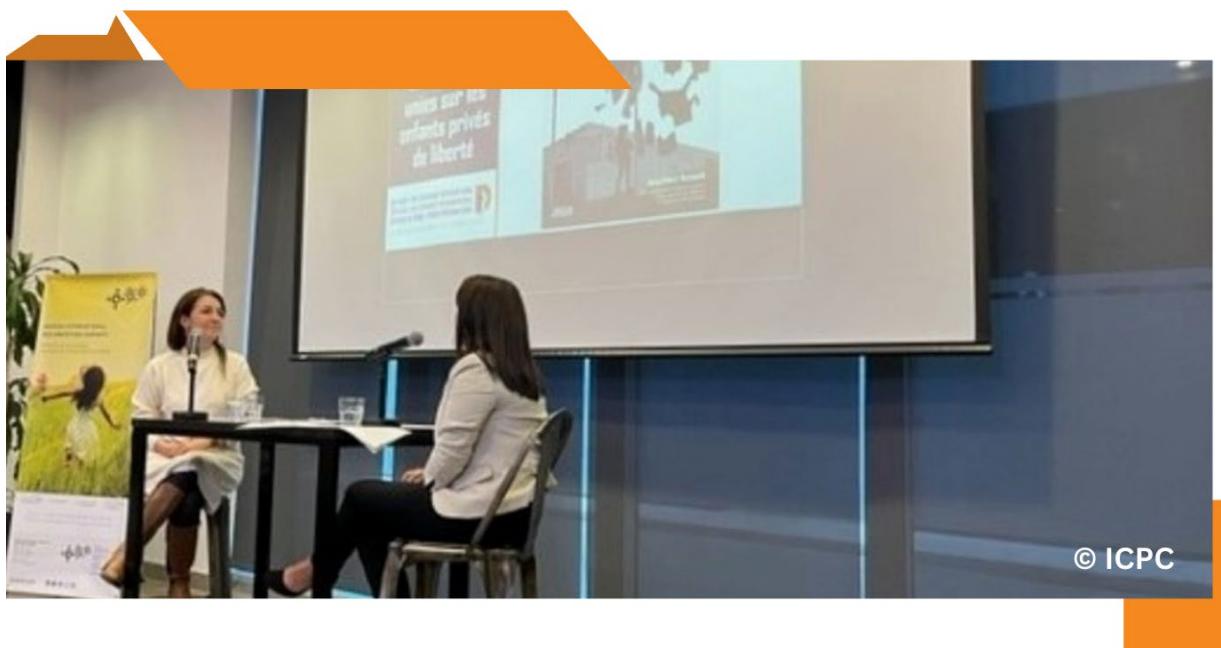

On December 12, 2023, we participated in the first interactive webinar on the peer review of the Global Safer Cities Programme, organized by UN-Habitat in partnership with Cities and Local Governments, Habitat Norway and Vibe Lab Germany. The webinar brought together some 50 participants to discuss urban safety in the context of the UN's New Urban Agenda and Agenda 2030, with a focus on safe spaces for all, especially young people and women.

November 20, 2023: The ICPC attended an event organized by the IBCR on justice adapted to children, Montréal, Québec, Canada

To celebrate the World Children's Day, on Monday 20 November we had the pleasure of attending an event organized by the International Bureau for Children's Rights (IBCR), which featured two panels on justice adapted to children.

Organized at the Maison du développement durable in Montréal, this hybrid event, attended by almost 150 people, provided an opportunity for various national and international specialists to discuss new practices and solutions for combating the privation of freedoms and the lack of application of justice adapted to children's rights around the world.

It was also the opportunity for the ICPC to connect with its partner and network, with whom we are working on a project to develop a second line of sexual exploitation prevention services for youth aged 12 to 25.

December 14, 2023: Participation of the ICPC in the launch of a new training course on acts of hatred by the CPRLV, Montréal, Quebec, Canada

On December 14, we attended the launch, in Montréal, of the online training course Les actes à caractère haineux organized by our partner, the Centre for the Prevention of Radicalization Leading to Violence (CPRLV).

Designed to raise awareness of the issue of acts of hatred, both in theory and through role-playing exercises, the training will provide participants with a deeper understanding of the phenomenon in Quebec and Canada. It will also help them identify and promote specific strategies and actions that are effective in preventing or dealing with hate-motivated acts so that everyone can do their part in society.

THE RÉSEAU D'ÉCHANGE ET DE SOUTIEN AUX ACTIONS LOCALES (RÉSAL) - MONTRÉAL

For the sixth consecutive year, the ICPC coordinated the activities of the Réseau d'échange et de soutien aux actions locales (RÉSAL), a network of 12 members (organizations and institutions) with a central objective: to exchange information on initiatives to prevent violence among young people aged 12 to 25 in the Montréal area.

Meetings of the RÉSAL coordinating committee in 2023:

As RÉSAL coordinators, we facilitate collaboration between various institutional, community and association partners to create concerted responses adapted to the needs of young people. Our commitment, through thematic training, is to promote safe and inclusive environments by implementing innovative and effective strategies to reduce violence and promote the well-being of young people in the Greater Montréal area.

Meetings of the RÉSAL coordinating committee have been held:

- December 6, 2023, online (Teams): 61st Meeting of the coordinating committee
- October 25, 2023, in person: 60th Meeting of the coordinating committee
- August 23, 2023, online: 59th Meeting of the coordinating committee
- May 24, 2023, in person: 58th Meeting of the coordinating committee
- March 29, 2023, online: 57th Meeting of the coordinating committee
- February 1, 2023, in person: 56th Meeting of the coordinating committee

February 15, 2023: 3rd RÉSAL colloquium

Around a hundred people gathered at Montréal's Centre St-Pierre to take part in the 3rd colloquium on the prevention of cyber-violence. The day was filled with activities for participants and panellists, with a series of meetings, discussions, workshops and "braindates."

The proceedings are available here.

Summer 2023: Coordination of training sessions for the community of practice on the prevention of youth violence

As part of the process of building the community of practice, two thematic training sessions took place in the summer of 2023. The first session, held on June 7, 2023, focused on the “prevention of restorative justice in youth,” with the goal of highlighting the principles of restorative justice and its importance in providing confidential, safe, and respectful listening and sharing spaces for all involved.

The other session, which took place on June 14, 2023, at the Centre St-Pierre (part 1) and on August 31, 2023, online (part 2), focused on "Preventing violence against LGBTQ+ youth." These two editions offered tools for practitioners to learn how to prevent such violence by helping to create an environment where acceptance and inclusion are valued, and by developing the ability to identify problem situations early and the means to provide support and assistance.

In total, almost 40 participants took part in the two sessions.

RÉSEAU RAPS (RECHERCHE ET ACTION SUR LES POLARISATIONS SOCIALES) – MONTRÉAL

The ICPC participates in the last 2023 RAPS meeting

Recherche et Action sur les Polarisations Sociales (RAPS) is a multidisciplinary team that seeks to understand how radicalization can lead to violence and to explore ways of prevention in order to preserve coexistence.

The ICPC participated in four meetings on February 16, March 9, October 5, and December 7.

CENTRE FOR COOPERATION

TECHNICAL ASSISTANCE AND SUPPORT PROJECTS

In 2023, for the fourth year in a row, the ICPC continued to develop its activities as part of the Urban Security Laboratory throughout Quebec and in Montréal in particular, offering adapted tools and products that can be easily adopted by the target audiences. These tools include dashboards, indicator systems, strategic planning, monitoring and evaluation methodologies, practice reviews, diagnostics and action research projects, all designed to meet specific needs in the prevention of urban insecurity.

In addition, some projects were funded as part of the Innovation and Expertise Development Program (IEDP), which is in line with the objectives of Public Safety Canada's Gun and Gang Violence Action Fund (GGAVF). This Fund, created in 2018, supports the provinces and territories in their efforts to prevent and combat gun and gang-related violence, as well as to promote understanding and awareness of related issues. While addressing federal government concerns, it enables action on Quebec's priorities in preventing and combating gun and gang-related violence.

Here is a list of the projects that have been set up throughout the year:

Local safety diagnosis for the Longueuil urban area

Commissioned by the city of Longueuil, Quebec, the report highlights an increase in crimes against the person between 2018 and 2022, particularly among young women in private spaces and 12- to 17-year-olds in schools. Based on the analysis of police data and collaborative analysis with young people and local stakeholders, the report highlights the importance of strengthening collaboration between local stakeholders for effective prevention measures and proposes concrete recommendations to improve safety in public, private, school and online spaces. This project was carried out during 2023 and will be completed in 2024.

Programme de prévention et d'intervention en matière d'exploitation sexuelle des jeunes (PPI) (Prevention and Intervention Program for the Sexual Exploitation of Youth)

The PPI is a financial support program offered by the Quebec Ministry of Public Safety to encourage the implementation of projects aimed at preventing the sexual exploitation of young people in a specific sector, particularly in areas known for their recruitment or prostitution activities.

In addition to updating data, documenting best practices, consulting with other experts and working with local stakeholders, the main objectives of the project are to:

- Increase the community's capacity to intervene in the fight against sexual exploitation, in particular by improving or expanding prevention, support and protection services for young people and victims of exploitation;
- To meet the support, follow-up and accompaniment needs of the most vulnerable clientele, who are often struggling with other problems (homelessness, drug addiction, mental health, etc.), and to address the risk factors associated with sexual exploitation by improving the capacity of organizations to make contact with these clientele;
- Experiment with practices based on a detailed understanding of the phenomenon and how it manifests and is articulated in a given environment;
- Improve our knowledge of the characteristics of victims of sexual exploitation, people who are vulnerable or at risk of exploitation, pimps and clients, their needs and local resources;
- Establish, where appropriate, sexual exploitation prevention practises that take into account the realities of Aboriginal and northern communities.

This project is scheduled to end in 2024-2025.

Victimization and Feeling of Safety Study

In order to improve the understanding of local issues that have a direct impact on a community's sense of well-being and security, ICPC has developed a survey model to collect the experiences, observations, suggestions, and opinions of a community's residents regarding security in the living spaces they frequent on a daily basis (e.g. open public space, closed public space, private space, cyberspace).

In fact, the purpose of the victimization survey is to analyze the prevalence of individual exposure to a selection of crimes, residents' opinions about safety and police services, and other safety providers such as school principals, mall managers, and security guards. Survey data can enable city managers to measure safety indicators that are not included in traditional crime statistics, such as feelings of insecurity, community satisfaction with police services and service expectations, and so on. Such aggregated data can be used as dashboards to "measure" urban safety more effectively.

Creation of a monitoring tool for the PAJAC project

As part of the Projet Action Jeunesse (Youth Action Project) for the Montréal borough of Ahuntsic-Cartierville, to be implemented in 2023, and in collaboration with the community organization Prévention du crime Ahuntsic-Cartierville (PCAC), a monitoring chart has been created that includes the activities of the various stakeholders to support them.

The goal was to help them produce a "made by youth" project on topics such as:

- Violence in couples among young people aged 12-25;
- Cyber-violence and cyberbullying;
- Introduction to community resilience;
- The relationship between young people and the police;
- Street harassment;
- The safety of LGBTQ people.

Urban Safety Laboratory (LabSU) support activities

Created in 2020 by the ICPC, the Laboratory for Urban Safety (LabSU) is an initiative based on an integrated and systemic vision of urban safety, considered an essential condition for the social, economic and cultural development of a city, as well as for the quality of life of its inhabitants, through safe and equitable access to the spaces, services and opportunities offered by the city.

In addition, LabSU has provided consulting expertise to the City of Montréal and its boroughs on strategic issues in several technical assistance projects. These include:

Innovation and Expertise Development Program (PIDE)

As part of the Innovation and Expertise Development Program (PIDE), ICPC responded to 14 mandates involving data processing (preparation of data tables), knowledge transfer (best practices, presentation of issues for young people aged 18 to 25, presentation of case histories of youth violence), thematic analysis (universal access in city facilities), strategic support (presentation of reports to the CoSSUM, governance model) and a problem-solving activity.

February 2023: Quantified portrait of Outremont, Montréal, Quebec, Canada

The Borough of Outremont in Montréal commissioned the ICPC to develop a quantitative portrait of crime. The study took into account data from the Uniform Crime Reporting Survey (UCR 2.2), the borough's public safety department, and the Canadian Index of Multiple Disadvantage (CIMD) produced by Statistics Canada.

The purpose of this LSA is to provide a portrait of safety among Outremont community residents and to encourage community participation in safety issues. In particular, it addresses concerns about safety in public and private spaces, in cyberspace, and in the school environment.

This LSA takes into account the testimonies and concerns expressed by citizens, and proposes solutions and ideas to meet the needs identified by participants in the Outremont community.

March 2023: Problem-Services Arrangement Analysis Report (Arrimage Problèmes-Services (APS)) on armed violence in the City of Montréal's north-east - Montréal-Nord, Rivière-des-Prairies, Pointe-aux-Trembles, Saint-Léonard, Villeray

The ICPC's Arrimage Problem Service (APS) analysis identifies service gaps by using a mapping process to locate and describe the services provided in a targeted area to address specific problems. The APS is designed to be a flexible, synthetic tool that enables clear, concise recommendations to be made in the form of a report.

The report is divided into three chapters. The first chapter focuses on community involvement in gun violence prevention in Montréal's northeast. The second chapter looks at the quality and accessibility of services provided by organizations. Finally, the third chapter looks at systemic solutions to the collective problems surrounding the phenomenon of gun violence. These three chapters are followed by a section of final considerations and recommendations for the prevention of gun violence in the northeast of the island of Montréal.

April 2023: Quantified portrait for the Rosemont-La Petite-Patrie borough, Montréal, Quebec, Canada

This quantified portrait analyzes the crimes committed in the Rosemont-La Petite-Patrie borough between 2015 and 2021, with the aim of providing a more accurate picture of the security problems and the most frequent crimes committed in the borough's public spaces.

With this in mind and following an analysis of the figures provided by the Ministry of Public Security, the ICPC's mission was to contribute to this analysis by carrying out an in-depth consultation of the community, involving citizens and stakeholders from the Rosemont and La Petite-Patrie areas.

The report is divided in four sections:

- The first presents an overview of crime in the Rosemont-La Petite-Patrie borough;
- In the second section, the profiles of alleged offenders and victims are observed according to several variables such as age and gender, with a focus on crimes suffered by certain vulnerable populations: young people and the elderly;
- The fourth section analyses certain offences of interest, in particular drug-related offences.

May 2023: ICPC collaboration in the PRÉVARM Living Lab project

The ICPC announce in May 2023, its collaboration with Denis Lafontaine, Professor of the School of Criminology at the Université of Montréal, and his team of researchers for the project "PRÉVARM: a living lab dedicated to the prevention of armed violence in the metropolitan area."

This innovative project aims to bring together key stakeholders such as the scientific community, organizations, community workers and people living in the Northeast of Montréal to experiment and develop innovative practices or approaches to prevent gun violence and maintain a safe environment for all.

The PREVARM Living Lab project responds to a crucial need for gun violence prevention in the Montréal metropolitan area. ICPC is pleased to participate in this ambitious project and to work with partners committed to creating a safer future for the Montréal community.

July 2023: Review of inspiring practices in situational prevention and safety features presented to the Autorité régionale de transport métropolitain (ARTM), Montréal, Quebec, Canada

As part of its mandate to support the development of ARTM's Guide de conception des équipements de transport collectif, ICPC has produced a review of inspiring practices in situational prevention and safety design for a number of transport networks used in major metropolitan areas around the world.

This review of practices includes:

- Key features for security and surveillance analysis;
- Architectural structures;
- Crime prevention policies;
- Urban planning in harmony with the environment.

July 2023: Review of prevention issues and best practices among young people ages 18-25

This review of issues and best practices affecting young people between the ages of 18 and 25 addressed the transition of young people in the justice system to adulthood, the lack of judicial resources, armed violence, and street and online harassment in Quebec and Montréal.

September 2023: Local safety audit on feelings of insecurity, social cohabitation issues and mischief in public spaces in the Rosemont-La Petite-Patrie borough, Montréal, Quebec, Canada

In line with the Plan stratégique Montréal 2030, the City of Montréal's renewed urban safety program, and its own strategic commitments, the Rosemont-La Petite-Patrie borough asked the ICPC to gain a better understanding of the realities and recent trends in its territory and to conduct an analysis of the main safety issues in public spaces.

Through a detailed analysis of the crimes committed in the borough's public spaces, as well as qualitative data on the residents' sense of security, the report has enabled us to make concrete recommendations to the various services concerned.

September 2023: Review of literature regarding safety issues for people with functional disabilities in Montréal and other similar cities

As part of the City of Montréal's action plan (Vision 2030) to promote the inclusion of people with functional disabilities, a consultation was conducted with organizations working with these populations and with people with functional disabilities to conduct a literature review on several specific safety issues.

This review highlighted key issues, best practices and initial courses of action for the City of Montréal to guide its vision for 2030.

December 2023: Summary of issues, findings and recommendations from the ICPC's work on cyber-violence

Using a life-space approach to better understand the relationships between the recurrence of crimes reported to the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Survey and the environments in which they occur, this study collected data to confirm the fluidity of acts of violence and conflict between private, public, and online life spaces. Based on the issues identified, findings were noted, recommendations were made, and some inspiring practices were suggested.

December 2023: Pilot project - Exploratory walks in collaboration with the Société de transport de Montréal (STM)

Faced with a high number of customer complaints related to safety concerns in various subway stations throughout the network, the Société de transport de Montréal (STM) asked ICPC to conduct exploratory walks to better understand what influences users' perception of safety. The goal of the project was to propose improvements based on the findings of the study.

Continuation of the Municipal Support Program

Since 2020, ICPC has been collaborating with the Municipal Support Program (PSM) established by the Quebec Ministry of Public Security. This program aims to strengthen the crime prevention capacities of Quebec municipalities, particularly those with fewer than 10,000 inhabitants. The ICPC's role in this program is to provide methodological support to these municipalities, helping them to develop local safety audits and preventive action plans adapted to local realities.

In 2023, the ICPC continued to play a central role in supporting ten participating municipalities, helping them to structure and integrate crime prevention measures. The focus was on creating action plans that provide a common focus for different municipal service sectors to better coordinate prevention efforts and respond effectively to criminality problems identified.

The various projects implemented as part of the support program included:

- A review of practices to assist police officers following traumatic events for the municipality of Blainville, Quebec;
- An action plan for the town of Gracefield, Quebec;
- A local safety audit for the City of L'Ancienne-Lorette, Quebec;
- A collaboration with the City of Sainte-Brigitte-de-Laval, Quebec, to develop a local safety audit;
- A guide for community organizations.

The support program, which has enabled municipalities to develop innovative and adapted prevention approaches, will end at the end of 2024, marking the end of this pilot project and the opportunity for municipalities to maintain the gains made in their local safety management.

COMMUNICATIONS AND MEDIA

In 2023, the ICPC continued its active communication efforts through various channels (social networks, website, newsletters). While maintaining a strong online presence, the year also marked a significant return to face-to-face interaction with our partners.

A total of four newsletters were sent to members, reinforcing our commitment to keeping them informed of our activities and initiatives.

ICPC GOVERNANCE, STATUTES AND OPERATING RULES

2023 GOVERNANCE

We would like to acknowledge the collective and individual efforts of the Board, who have once again demonstrated their unwavering commitment to our mission. Through their expertise, strategic vision and sustained dedication, our directors have been instrumental in achieving our goals. Their work, both in terms of governance and in guiding our actions, has been vital in strengthening our ability to respond to the needs of crime prevention on a global scale.

Having joined the ICPC Board at the end of 2021, Stéphane Fleury will step down from his role as Director in 2023. We sincerely thank him for his dedication and support, which has helped to strengthen ICPC's ability to respond to public safety challenges.

ICPC Governance Meetings

The ICPC Board met four times during the year to assess the challenges faced, to review the various activities and to review ongoing projects with its members:

- March 9, 2023;
- 8 juin 2023;
- September 7, 2023;
- December 7, 2023.

FINANCES

Although pandemic-related issues faded somewhat into the background, 2023 was a year not without its own set of financial challenges for the Centre. The final year (2023/2024) of the multi-year agreement with MSP Quebec for the Laboratory on Urban Safety, funding that has given the Centre a certain stability over the last three years, meant that negotiations for the renewal of the agreement for this flagship product got underway early in the year. Following the end of a three-year agreement with the City of Montréal in 2022 for the same project, a new funding model was introduced for 2023, giving the ICPC a bank of hours to be used for specific mandates received from our partner. This model rendered financial planning more complicated than in the past, as only 50% of the $100,000 agreement was used by the end of our financial year.

We were informed early in the year that our core funding from the Government of Quebec, $85,000 per year, had come to an end. However, we then received encouraging news in November that we would receive a final round of funding after all for 2023, with partial payment to follow at the very end of the year, and full payment received in May 2024.

All of the above lead to a certain financial instability throughout the year and meant that we were unable to pay back our pandemic loan of $40,000 from the Government of Canada ($60,000 loan taken in 2020/2021, of which 20 000$ was forgivable if paid back by the December 2023 deadline).

On a more positive note, we continued to benefit from diverse sources of funding for our activities including year 2 of the 2022-2025 agreement with the Government of Quebec for the prevention of sexual exploitation project, and numerous smaller projects with the City of Montréal and several Quebec municipalities.

Despite best efforts and given that we had to differ a significant amount of revenue received in 2023 for activities that would continue in 2024, we finished the year with a $93,854 deficit, which we intend to reverse in 2024.

EVOLUTION OF THE GENERAL BUDGET

Total revenues for 2023 decreased by 26% from 2022. A decrease in revenue was anticipated as 2023 was not a conference year, and conference funding usually adds an extra $100,000 to the annual budget, with a similar increase in expenses related to the event. Total expenses decreased by 17.5%, with human resources and operating expenses remaining stable, and a significant decrease in travel costs.

However, with the new funding models, the additional $20,000 from the loan that now had to be accounted for, and taking on the salary of an essential staff member who was previously seconded to the ICPC, we were unable to break even in 2023.

The audited Financial Statements for 2023 are available upon request.

We are proud to be associated with initiatives such as the Government of Canada's Young Canada Works program and the Cégep de Saint-Jean-sur-Richelieu (Quebec) program in Canada. Through these partnerships, we have been able to offer professional training and development opportunities to young people from diverse backgrounds in Quebec and France, while benefiting from their innovative perspectives and commitment to our mission.

We are thankful for these programs, which support the integration of these young people into the workforce while providing them with practical skills and hands-on experience.
